PROFESSOR LEE DAVIS PLANS YEAR OF STUDY

Present Language Instructor Speaks
Fourteen Languages

Lee Davis, professor of languages at Union College since 1923, is another prominent teacher who will discontinue his work as instructor at the end of the summer school session.

Professor Davis plans to pursue a course of study at the Nebraska state university next year.

Professor Davis received his bachelor of arts degree from Washington Missionary College, but his three previous years of college were spent at the George Washington University, Washington, D. C. Before coming to Union College Professor Davis taught in the Unadilla, New York, high school.

Professor Davis speaks fourteen different languages, but his major is in French. The majority of these languages are modern.

SCHILLING URGES USE OF SIDEWALKS

Library Board Requests Students
Not to Trample on New Shrubby

Professor H. K. Schilling spoke to the students in chapel Wednesday morning, May 11, regarding the numerous paths on the campus. He grew most eloquent as he pleaded with the students to use the walks instead of ruining the campus. Professor Schilling in his speech, spoke as a special representative of the College View Public Library Board. He said that the board had recently planted a good many shrubs on the library lawn and had put in new grass seed, and that they were very desirous that the students give the seed a chance to grow.

Professor Schilling received generous applause following his speech and it has been observed that the number of path-walkers has greatly diminished this past week. Those who have been seen violating the request are Ralph Wilson, Ruth Hoffman, George Mathews, Eva Gibb, Elder Blosser, Dr. Audrey Nicola, Esther Hartzell, and Harriet Peterson.

This is the last weekly issue of the Clock Tower until school begins next fall.

CLOCK TOWER BOARD PRESENTS $100 TO MALAYSIAN "SIGNS" PRESS

Draft Given to Roger Altman at Association Meeting

At the last meeting of the Clock Tower board, Sunday morning, May 15, it was voted to donate one hundred dollars to the Malaysian "Signs" press at Singapore to be used as the management there see fit.

During the chapel exercises Monday, May 16, the New York draft was presented to Roger Altman, who with Mrs. Altman and Master Peter are sailing for Singapore in July to take over the editorship of the Malaysian "Signs of the Times."

In presenting the draft Earl Gardner expressed the appreciation of the Clock Tower board for Mr. Altman's service as president of the board. In response Mr. Altman said, "I thank you very much in behalf of the Malaysian 'Signs' press. It would be very difficult to invest one hundred dollars in a way to bring more lasting and satisfactory returns than the way this has been invested. When I present it to the publishing house there they will be greatly encouraged to know that the cause of missions is so definitely on the hearts of the Clock Tower board and every student of Union College."

This year it was reported that he should return to Union College and take up his work as head of the department of geology, which position he held before going to England. ### Editorial

We suggest for the summer vacation that—

You plan now definitely for next year.
You bring another back with you.
You do not fail to take the Clock Tower.

You notify us now of your address.
Your parents will expect more from you.

Your friends will watch you closely.
Your enemies will watch you more closely.

Actions speak louder than words.
If you believe in Union, say so.

The Clock Tower staff and board wish to take this way of expressing their appreciation to the Union College Press for the co-operation, efficiency, and careful attention that has been given to the printing of the Clock Tower. The fact that the paper has always reached the mail on schedule time has been especially gratifying.

The Clock Tower stands for progress and development. We do not believe that school functions need to be carried on every year in the same old way in order properly to uphold the best traditions of the institution. We maintain that Union College was founded by men and women of progressive ideals and principles; that it is not being true to those principles merely to fall into a rut, making it deeper each year until it threatens to become the grave of all progress, while we complacently smile at each other, pat ourselves on the back and multiply words about our loyalty to dear old Union.

We refer in part to the exercises of commencement week, and more specifically still to the function known as class night. It is the generally accepted practice for the senior class of a twelve-grade school to render a more or less stereotyped program, covering such items as orations, prophecy, history, will and so forth. It is inevitable that the same high-sounding platitudes will be repeated. Such exercises, in our opinion, are not out of place, but on the other hand may be very charming. The program recently given by the academic seniors was well received, and the class is to be congratulated.

But a college senior should have reached the place in his experience when the usual numbers such as are rendered on high school class nights will not measure up to his ideal. We have attended a number of class night programs, given both by academic and by college seniors, and it has been our observation that the collegiate production bears too close a resemblance to the other. Union College should do better than this. We believe that the class night occasion could be made one of tremendous importance and great appeal. It could be a real feature in the school and one which would contribute much to its growth and prestige. But for a group of mature men and women to go through the usual performance of history, will, prophecy, oration, gift, song, hail and farewell in the same way, using the same phrases and harping on the same time-worn themes year in and year out seems to us unfortunate, and unworthy of a college class.

We look forward to the class night exercises on May 19. Undoubtedly the numbers have been painstakingly prepared and will be well rendered. The audience will not be critical, and neither is the Clock Tower; but we do look forward to the time when Union College class night will either be eliminated entirely, or given a distinctly modern, dignified, and collegiate character.

Sentence Sermons

Edited by W. W. Prescott

To fear is to have more faith in your antagonist than in Christ. When you have found one greater than Christ, then you may fear.

To ask aught in Christ's name is to stake all our hopes of success at the throne of grace upon the work that Christ has wrought out in our stead, to rest with an undivided mind upon that, to feel that it is infinitely meritorious, and that the merit of it appears with infinitely more distinctness to the Father than it can to any creature.

In the advent of the Comforter there is an advent of Christ to the soul, and the indwelling of the Spirit is the indwelling of the Saviour.

On the days of Pentecost the Jews saw before them a hundred and twenty proofs of the resurrection of Christ. Each believer was seen to be clothed with a life such as had never before been beheld, and each believer was to the astonished multitude as a risen Christ.

IT IS TO LAUGH

Professor: Does the question embarrass you?

Student: Not at all; it is quite clear. It's the answer that bothers me.

Jack: I don't think I should get a zero on this paper.

Teacher: I don't either, but that's the lowest I could give you.

Mr. Everett: Aren't you the boy that was here a week ago looking for a position?

Kenneth Elliott: Yes sir.

Mr. Everett: I thought so; and didn't I tell you then that I wanted an older boy?

Kenneth Elliott: Yes sir, that's why I'm here again, I'm older now.

Vox Populi

The following letter was received from Joe Phillips, of the class of '20. Mr. Phillips is superintendent of the Burma Union Mission, located at Rangoon, Burma:

Dear Editor: I have read the first three issues of the Clock Tower, and feel that we are getting a splendid supply of news. I have often thought since reading the new publication that this paper is a true reflection of the spirit of Union College as I knew it from 1914 to 1920.

Enclosed you will find the dollar for my subscription for one year.

With the very best of wishes for the success of the new publication and with kind regards, I remain

Sincerely yours,

J. Phillips.

Dear Clock Tower:

I was in the green-house yesterday looking at the beautiful beds of flowers all in perfect symmetry. But in the corners was an unkempt patch, all mixed—marigolds, sweet peas, cowslips, lady-slippers, gladiolas, and others. The individuality of each had taken away from the beauty of the whole, so I passed quickly from these to the beds all of one kind, where each helped to bring out the beauty of the other. One little flower did not look so pretty by itself alone, but a group or a bouquet radiated the exquisite beauty of all, and the symmetry and charm of each.

I think there is nothing so beautiful as a group of girls in uniform. Each school should have characteristic uniforms. On coming to one of our schools, where we had the uniform, and after visiting many schools, a traveling minister said that he wished that he might remain with us. He said, "This view from the rostrum truly is delightful and restful to my eyes, for I am tired of seeing the speckled groups."—B. A.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Scouts of Lincoln and the suburbs are to have a May field rally on Memorial Day. A large number of contests are to be staged; the person receiving the highest number of points will carry the honors of the day.

On April 30, Professor S. R. Loomis, commercial teacher of the College View high school, Miss Elva Babcock, of the Union College commercial department, Florence Wilson, and Opal Dresselhaus went to Hastings to attend the commercial contest. Miss Wilson went to enter in the short-hand contest.

College View high school was well represented at the state high school meet which assembled at Wesleyan University, May 13-14. Ralph Conners came to the limelight by staying in the tennis tournament until the fourth round. Conners was defeated by a contestant from Creighton Preparatory, Omaha, Nebr., the score being 8-6; 6-1.

A debate was held in the high school assembly between the English III class and the debating class. The question for debate was "Resolved: That the United States is becoming imperialistic in China." The debaters for the English class were Louise Coffman, Vera Cook, and Leota Richardson, taking the affirmative. The debaters for the debating class were Warner Carlson, Doris Evans, and Helen Ray, who were on the negative. Seven minutes were allowed for the constructive speeches with four minutes for the rebuttal. The judges were Professor Jacobson, Dr. Nicola, and Judge Forsythe, who rendered their decision in favor of the negative.

ENLIGHTENING INFORMATION

Examination question in economics: Discuss socialism as to its rise and development.

One answer: Socialism started with the man Utopia, in 1870. Another man who helped to start it was Maxian from Europe. There are so many phases of socialism that they can hardly get along.

Another answer: There was a book on Utopianism, the ideal place, but could never be had with human beings. (Sounds as if the author of this statement needs some freshman rhetoric.)

TRUE CULTURE

"The true gentleman is kind, courageous and civil. He does not know what it means to become angry, to lose control of his temper, to speak discourteously. He never shows that he is embarrassed or ill at ease. He is as calm and unconcerned in the presence of a world-wide celebrity as he is when he is with his most intimate friends, nor is he ever bitter, haughty, or arrogant."

"The perfect lady is not the ornamental butterfly of society as some would have us believe. She is gentle, well-dressed and graceful—not merely ornamental. She does some useful work no matter what it is. She is patient always and generous. She is never haughty or superior. She is kind and courteous to everyone."

Program of Music and Games Fur- nishes Evening's Entertainment

The men and women of the college homes entertained the village students at a lawn party on the North Hall lawn Saturday evening, May 14. At the beginning of the evening they sang the college song and some old time songs; then the Missouri string quartet, consisting of Messrs. Teel, Miller, Sofsky, and Holmes, gave a selection. A sample of old time fiddling was given by Mr. Miller, accompanied on the guitar by Mr. Sofsky. Miss Hazel Buck gave the evening's address of welcome along with instructions as to what to do and what not to do. "Sparkling Sunlight" was then sung by a group of North Hall girls. A boy's quartet sang three selections. The last number, "The Troubles and Hardships of a Married Man," was dedicated to those taking the "fatal step" of matrimony this summer. The members of the quartet were Lloyd Gould, Wesley Rhodes, Byrne Taylor, and Lawrence Martin. The next hour was spent in playing games. Everyone reported a very enjoyable evening.
